

FAQ

Abstract Preparation and Submission

Do I need to submit an abstract to be selected?

It is possible to register without presenting an abstract. However, please note that we do encourage participants to submit an abstract and actively take part in the program either by presenting a poster or being selected for a short talk. All abstracts must be submitted on the dates given.

Do I need to register to be selected?

It is not possible to be selected by the committee either for an oral or a poster presentation without being registered at the Conference and having paid off the registration fees.

How do I submit my abstract?

You have to submit your abstract by e-mail (abstract@ebec2020.org). For detailed instructions on how to submit a conference abstract, follow the instructions provided in the “Abstract submission” tab.

How do I prepare my abstract?

For preparing and formatting abstracts, you have to follow instructions provided in the template.

How does the abstract selection take place?

The abstracts that the participants submit will be evaluated by the selection committee of the meeting and will be selected either for a short talk or for poster presentation.

If I am selected for a short talk, can I also bring a poster?

While submitting your abstract you'll be able to choose if you would like to apply for a short talk or for a poster presentation only or for a short talk and a poster presentation. In this latter case, if you have been selected for a talk, based on space availability, we might be able to offer you a poster board.

How long does it take for the selections to be announced?

The selection of the talks takes place around 2 weeks after the abstract submission closes. The deadline for abstract submission for an oral presentation is June 1st, 2020 and the notification acceptance by the committee is June 15th. Author of abstract who will be selected for a talk will have one week (up to the June 22th, 2020) to confirm that he/she will indeed agree to give a talk at the conference.

The notification acceptance for poster presentations will be done on a rolling basis.
